MRS. A. J. GAHAGAN.

Well-Known Christian Lady Dies at Home on Walnut Street After Long Illness.

At 2:30 p. m. Monday, June 19th Mrs. A. J. Gahagan died at the family residence, 224 Walnut street. Mrs. Gahagan has been an invalid for the past two years and for several months has been confined to her home. Last October, in order to save her life, it was necessary to amputate one of her limbs. From this severe operation she had so far recovered as to be able to sit up a few hours each day, but on last Friday she had an attack of apoplexy from which she never regained full consciousness. Mrs. Gahagan was a fine Christian character, a devoted wife and mother. In her hospitable home she made all welcome; by her unselfish charity she made many friends among the deserving poor. She never denied bread to the hungry nor denied clothing to the naked.

This city has furnished few better women. She never lived for society, but her life was devoted to noble deeds. The memory of her devotion as wife and mother is the heritage that this good woman has left to her husband and children.

Mrs. Gahagan was a daughter of Capt. W. L. Dugger, one of the oldest residents of this city. She was married thirty-four years ago to Capt. A. J. Gahagan. The family has lived on the same lot, No. 224, Walnut street, since 1871. Her father, Capt. Dugger, and her husband, A. J. Gahagan, and three children, Geo. W. Gahagan, Jesse D. Gahagan and Mrs. J. L. Rogers, are all well-known residents of Chattanooga. She was a member of the First Methodist church.

Funeral services were held at 4 p. m. Tuesday at the family residence, conducted by her pastor, Dr. Luther Freeman, assisted by Dr. T. H. McCallie. Burial in Forest Hills cemetery.—Chattanooga Times.

Cuban Diarrhea.

U. S. soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and that ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhea is almost as severe and dangerous as an attack of the cholera. There is one remedy, however, that can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs of Houston, Tenn.: "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors, but they did him no good, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by all druggists.
